ISSUE #4 “METAMORPHOSIS”

FEATURES

6 Heart Cracked Open: My Trial by Fire BY MARIANNA HARTSONG

On the afternoon of November 21, 2009, while I was in town playing The Messiah, my house burned to the ground. By the time we returned at 4:30, the first responders were just preparing to search for my body.

16 Where the Horizon Meets the Sky: Finding Courage at Freezeout Saddle BY M. C. REARDON

I am deathly afraid of heights. So when a writing colleague invited me to join her on a steep hike to Freezeout Saddle on the edge of the Hells Canyon Wilderness, I was at a loss.

24 How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love My Wrinkles BY BRENDA MARROY

My intense dislike of aging was a result of buying into the societal lie that “it is wrong for an older woman to look her age.”

29 Not Just a Pain in the Neck: Lessons from a Midlife Goddess BY LADY WILLOW

Healing our own emotional pain is often left for last until we are poised on the brink of becoming crones. I like to think of the menopause’s “hot flashes” as the purifying fire of the Goddess.
